
Pro Rege

Volume 37
Number 2 Fine Arts Issue 2008

Article 5

December 2008

Mother's Day

Mike Vanden Bosch
Dordt College

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcollections.dordt.edu/pro_rege

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Vanden Bosch, Mike (2008) "Mother's Day," Pro Rege: Vol. 37: No. 2, 7.

Available at: https://digitalcollections.dordt.edu/pro_rege/vol37/iss2/5

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at Digital Collections @ Dordt. It has been accepted for inclusion in Pro Rege by an authorized administrator of Digital Collections @ Dordt. For more information, please contact ingrid.mulder@dordt.edu.

Mother's Day

Mike Vanden Bosch

Her right foot peddles the sewing machine into the night, stitching scraps from old woolen coats and trousers into scarfs and mittens.

On a frigid day she clips dad's bibbed overalls to wire lines where in minutes wind freezes the legs into stove pipes round as rings.

Then, to kill germs, she walks on ice carrying boiling water to the barn to clean the cream separator after the morning milking.

When the supper dishes are washed and wiped, she sits,
fingers pushing needles, crocheting rainbow doilies to wash away the day

while Dad, by the light of a lone gas lamp, reads to her another chapter from Tales from the Catacombs to open her heart to God.