

---

Pro Rege

---

---

Volume 33
Number 2 Fine Arts Issue 2004

Article 3

---

December 2004

At Peace in the Tumult of the World

David Schelhaas
Dordt College

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcollections.dordt.edu/pro\_rege

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Schelhaas, David (2004) "At Peace in the Tumult of the World," Pro Rege:
Vol. 33: No. 2, 4.
Available at: https://digitalcollections.dordt.edu/pro\_rege/vol33/iss2/3

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at Dordt Digital Collections. It has been accepted for inclusion in Pro Rege by an authorized administrator of Dordt Digital Collections. For more information, please contact ingrid.mulder@dordt.edu.

At Peace in the Tumult of the World

David Schelhaas

After the late summer rains, raspberries once again
weight the heads of these rickety canes,
pulling them earthward,
earthward pulling me.

My fingers know where to grasp the long bowed necks of the canes.
I tip them up, take, and eat
of the fruit, ignoring the stains, plucking and plucking the lush red berries that gush when I crush the soft flesh with my teeth.

Every berry made up of many smaller berries wedded into one,
each berry a round red tongue
singing soundless songs,
each a cup that drank the late summer's rain
so I can drink its wine.

My thirst assuaged, I stand erect again, hands stained, heart healed,
at peace in the tumult of the world.