
Pro Rege

Volume 28
Number 2 Arts Issue 1999

Article 2

December 1999

On the Deck

David Schelhaas
Dordt College

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcollections.dordt.edu/pro_rege

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Schelhaas, David (1999) "On the Deck," Pro Rege: Vol. 28: No. 2, 4.
Available at: https://digitalcollections.dordt.edu/pro_rege/vol28/iss2/2

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at Digital Collections @ Dordt. It has been accepted for inclusion in Pro Rege by an authorized administrator of Digital Collections @ Dordt. For more information, please contact ingrid.mulder@dordt.edu.

On the Deck

Dave Schelhaas

May sunshine, and I am sitting on the deck.
I eat my cold beef sandwich—
the Germans call it fleisch—
as just above the grass
the sparrows trampoline wind currents as if they're guided by remote control.

The wren's so happy
she can't contain herself
and the house finch flits
from tree to bush, her neck
bright red against the green.

This morning I read
a freshman paper which told me that "old people are waiting for death
and content with their surroundings."

I could sit here all afternoon, I think,
listening and looking.

Most of the perennials
have sent out shoots of green.
I imagine them slowly growing,
cating rain and sunshine
to stack cells one against another,
calmly working toward a flower,
pushing up, up.