

---

Pro Rege

---

---

Volume 47
Number 2 Fine Arts Issue 2018

Article 6

---

December 2018

Odd Exchange: From Ascension Day to Pentecost

Bob De Smith

Dordt College, bob.desmith@dordt.edu

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcollections.dordt.edu/pro\_rege

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

---

Recommended Citation

De Smith, Bob (2018) "Odd Exchange: From Ascension Day to Pentecost,"

Pro Rege: Vol. 47: No. 2, 6.

Available at: https://digitalcollections.dordt.edu/pro\_rege/vol47/iss2/6

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at Dordt Digital Collections. It has been accepted for inclusion in Pro Rege by an authorized administrator of Dordt Digital Collections. For more information, please contact ingrid.mulder@dordt.edu.

Odd Exchange: From Ascension Day to Pentecost

---

Bob De Smith

Our Flesh Ascends,
Breathes Air
From who knows where,

While Spirit,
Unearthly Breath,
Falls and Speaks
Without Diminishing, Here or There.

The Old Professor Discovers the Sweet Egg of Discontent

---

Dave Schelhaas

A small boat moves across his line of sight, one fisherman in the stern, one in the bow, each holding a fishing rod.
They are working the weed line—as he has done a hundred times—trolling so slowly they seem hardly to be moving at all, so quiet, powered by an electric motor,
they seem almost unreal, ethereal as a cloud.

“What contentment they must feel on this perfect summer day,” the old professor said to himself, but then he recalled what it felt like to be fishing—the restless anticipation, the subtle discontent that sat in the heart until, wham, a walleye hit your bait, then the blood-rush of excitement as you reeled it in and finally, perhaps, contentment, but more likely only an almost frenzied