
Pro Rege

Volume 23
Number 2 Arts Issue

Article 3

December 1994

Putting the Sioux in Center: The Games We Play

Bob De Smith

Dordt College, bob.desmith@dordt.edu

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcollections.dordt.edu/pro_rege

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

De Smith, Bob (1994) "Putting the Sioux in Center: The Games We Play,"
Pro Rege: Vol. 23: No. 2, 3.
Available at: https://digitalcollections.dordt.edu/pro_rege/vol23/iss2/3

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at Dordt Digital Collections. It has been accepted for inclusion in Pro Rege by an authorized administrator of Dordt Digital Collections. For more information, please contact ingrid.mulder@dordt.edu.

Putting the Sioux In Center: The Games We Play

by Robert J. De Smith

In our backyard a tepee's building,
All jungle gym and patchwork blanket—
The intense games of summer.

Three children,
War painted with sunscreen,
Weave with clothespins
And gather twigs from before my lawn mower
(Its Tecumseh engine tom-toms
The beat of their lives).

Fretful, I've outlawed any
Hoops or Ughs—
And John Wayne's nowhere to be seen.
But I cannot restrain powwows,
Drums,
Hunting along the edge of our pines.

Late in the afternoon,
I'm drawn to their game:
I'm a buffalo
Whose beach towel skin—oranges and blues—
Is highly prized.
I die (brilliantly!) again and again,
Expiring in the warm grass
Before the war-giggles of my own.